DON PALMITER

I love motorcycles, and I love the challenge of sculpting them. The '71 Harley-Davidson FX-1200 Super Glide (the first motorcycle designed by Wally G. Davidson, the founder's grandson) was particularly tricky because most of the components are visible. It was a real breakthrough design for its day. But what made this model so challenging to sculpt is exactly what made it so fun!

The idea for this year's "Mischievous Kittens" came to me when I received a birthday card of a cat in a terra cotta pot. It made me imagine what would happen if a little kitty knocked a flower pot over — because kittens have a habit of getting into things they shouldn't!
